

Bio of Cheryl Freeman McGee

Cheryl McGee was the 5th child born to William and Loretta Freeman in Indianapolis, Indiana. She was raised in Huntsville, Alabama, and attended Anna Knight Elementary School, which is on the campus of Oakwood University. Her family later moved to Hattiesburg, Mississippi, where she attended and graduated from Bass Memorial Academy.

Cheryl received her Bachelor of Science degree in Elementary Education from Tennessee State University. After graduation, she was hired as a teacher with the South Atlantic Conference and received her first assignment at Ramah Junior Academy, where she worked for 11 ½ years.

In 2001, Cheryl relocated to Atlanta, GA, and was hired as a Berean Christian Junior Academy teacher. During her 14 years at the school, she held several positions-Teacher, Lead Teacher, and Assistant Principal. In 2015, Cheryl was asked to be the Principal -Teacher of Atlanta Adventist International School in Jonesboro, GA. She remained in this position until December 2020, when she accepted the call to be the Associate Superintendent of Schools for the South Atlantic Conference.

During Cheryl's journey, she continued her educational journey and graduated with a master's degree in education from Cambridge College in 1995 and most recently received an Education Specialist Degree in leadership.

Cheryl is married to Andrew McGee, and they have three adult children in this union.

Her memorable quote and life's mission is, "If I can help somebody as I travel along
If I can cheer somebody with a word or a song, If I can show somebody he's traveling wrong,
Then my living shall not be in vain."
